Suffolk priest's year-long arctic adventure in Inuit community

The Revd Enid Pow, the new priest in charge of the Four Rivers Benefice in Suffolk, spent last year in the Community of Kuujjuaq, the largest Inuit community in the Nunavik region of Quebec, Canada, having lived in Canada for the last ten years.

"I was the mission priest in the Community of Kuujjuaq and my congregation were 99% Inuit," she said. "They spoke their native language, Inuktitut, so my services were done with a translator. It's such a different environment, the nights are very long and dark there, so you have to adjust psychologically to it. They are simply lovely people," she said. "They really take you to their hearts, they are caring, protective and extremely generous. It really was a great honour to have been part of their community."

Enid was welcomed to the Four Rivers Benefice - which oversees churches in Bedfield, Brundish, Cratfield, Laxfield, Monk Soham, Tannington and Wilby – in a special service in February earlier this year. Enid said, "The people have been really lovely and supportive here, it's a very friendly place to live. I think what I will bring from my time living with the Inuit is how they value listening. Most first nations people are very respectful and listen in absolute silence when someone is speaking. I think that's what I will bring back from my time with them, the importance of carefully listening to people and considering what they have to say."

Ancestry appointed to digitise Suffolk's popular family and local history source

How can you benefit from the Diocesan Growth Fund?

Suffolk Archives will work alongside family history website Ancestry to create high-quality, full colour digital images of millions of baptism, marriage and burial records from parishes within our Diocese.

The earliest records being digitised date back as to 1538 and include events in the lives of notable historical figures, such as the 1776 baptism of landscape artist John Constable, and the 1846 burial of Thomas Clarkson who devoted his life to the abolition of slavery.

It is hoped that Suffolk's main parish records will be published online in early 2025 with other collections of local interest to follow. Public access will be free of charge in Suffolk Archives branches or at any Suffolk Library. Anyone with an Ancestry subscription will also be able to access the records as part of their research from their own computer or device.

Gary Peverley, Acting Diocesan Secretary, Diocese of St Edmundsbury and Ipswich said: "Suffolk Archives is the official record office for the diocese, and they store a huge amount of material. This is an exciting project to digitise Suffolk's parish registers and transcripts with Ancestry. Going forward it will make it easier to draw on the archives and offer improved preservation of the original registers ensuring they are readily available to everyone in the future".
